AMERICAN ECONOMY HAS GROWN CONSISTENTLY

'What a country!" is the happy title of a feature article in the October issue of Fortune, written by Gilbert Burck and Sanford Parker. It has to do primarily with the everchanging American market and consumer spending.

As everyone knows, this spending has increased at a great rate. It was $200,000,000 in 1950 and this year, the Fortune article says, It will come to $242,000,000,000. In 1960 it 's expected to reach $282,000,000,000 (in terms of constant 1956 dollars). Family cash income, after taxes, now averages $5,400—the projected 1960 figure is $6,000.

But this increase is not all of the story of "What a Country!" by any means. Equally impressive is a change in direction of the spending-toward what is called "spend better." For instance, the famous Paris fashion showings are traditionally attended only by representatives of a comparatively few high priced specialty shops. But last summer, to the amazement of many, a representative of a leading mail order house was present. As Messrs. Burck and Parker write, "What it amounted to was an announcement to the world that the U.S. had achieved a living standard so high and a prosperity so widely distributed that the nation's largest purveyor to the average man, simply to keep abreast of the market, had found itself obliged to keep abreast of the latest in houte couture.

... The vast majority of American consumers are no longer content with minimum standards, but demand the abundance, quality and style that used to differentiate the good life from ordinary living." The typical consumer is getting more and more demandingbecause he can afford to be.

Destroy Cotton Stalks Early

Although there are not too many cotton stalks in the Hamlin section to destroy, insect specialists are urging that what farmers have be destroyed as early as possible.

Conditions are ideal for destroying cotton stalks and boll residue because of the early harvest brought on by the drouth. Extension Entomologists F. M. Fuller and C. F. Garner say the practice should be stressed for it is one of the best for controlling pink bollworms and other cotton insects.

The use of stalk shredders is highly recommended since these machines kill many of the pink bollworms left in the field after harvest. The entomologists say it is desirable to plow the shredded residue under to a depth of six inches within five days after cutting, but that when the shredded material is spread thinly over the ground, hot sunshine and soil temperatures will kill many of the dreaded worms.

The entomologists have made available through the offices of local county agents, the booklet L-219, "Ways to Fight the Pink Bollworm." It is free for the asking. In addition to recommended control practices, the publication lists the legal plow-up deadlines for the different districts of the state, and the pink bollworm regulatory requirements for the year 1956.

Finally, the entomologists point out, early stalk destruction is also one of the best control methods for all major cotton destroying insects. Too, it is also a good farming practice from the standpoint of soil and water conservation and soil preparation.

Man Does Not Live Alone

No man is an island, entire of itself. Every man is a piece of the continent, a part of the main. If a clod be washed away by the sea, Europe is the less as well as of a manor of thy friend or of thine own. Any man's death diminishes me because I am involved in mankind. And, therefroe, never send to know for whom the bell tolls: I tolls for I thee - John Donne.

This is changing old concepts of "saturated" markets. As an example, the Fortune article says that the electric iron market has been considered more than 90 per cent "saturated" for 25 years. Yet more and more irons are sold-sold in much greater quantity than the replacement factor alone demands. This is becoming true of all manner of commodities.

As part and parcel of the trend, a new kind of competition has appeared and become a powerful force. It is inter-industry competition, and was relatively unimportant in past times. The Burck-Parker article makes its workings plain in these words: "The new Buick competes with that vacation in Florida; the desire to move from a three-bedroom house to a four-bedroom house competes with the urge to buy a bigger power boat next spring; and in countless smaller decisions every day there is competition between better quality food and better quality clothes, more high-fi records and the new camera, etc.

This advanced state of discretionary spending has led economists astray. For example, when auto sales sagged badly last spring some felt that the economy as a whole was due for a hard blow. But that did not happen -because people spent the money for other things, and total spending remained high.

All this, of course, does not mean that the American economy is nothing but sweetness and light, without a problem or a built-in danger. But it does show that the economy has grown almost beond the wildest expectations—and that the fruits of it, as demonstrated by material living standards, are more widely shared than in any the modern world has known.

One Day at a Time

The present only belongs to us. Of all the vast eternities, only the moment we presently enjoy is assured to us. The past is an accomplished history that cannot be altered; the future is a prospective record that cannot be

The influence of today's activity may touch the very shores of eternity, but it is to the individual only a momentary opportunity. The burdens that rest heavily on tired shoulders may be entirely removed by tomorrow's dawn. It is only the duties of the day that demand performance and the evils of the hour that need to be borne.

The attempt to bear tomorrow's load results in failure, both for the present and the future.

Editorial of the Week

THE TEST OF PEOPLE.

It is going to be interesting to see if advertising promotion is going to be able to sell enough new automobiles to keep that industry humming this year. Here is a wrapped-up package of our economy. If the public buys it, it could well mean there is no limit to a way of progress based on mass production and hard promotion.

Most of us will agree that we could very well drive our present cars a year longer or even two, maybe more. But will we? Can we resist a car that breaks through the vibration barrier with a swept-wing mastery of motion? Another leaps a full three years ahead in one flaming moment while the racy lines of another's dream car styling for 1957 lend themselves to the grace and beauty of the new century.

They are words. But if they make people buy cars, and car makers buy steel, and steel workers buy appliances—and more cars—then we're all in on the upward swing.

A friend of ours recently put it this way, In a net sort of way, I don't seem to be any better off than I was a few years back. But, I am living a whole lot better!"-Caps and

(concluded from page one) generally in excellent condition. New and modern classroom furniture has been provided in all rooms of the system with the exception of two or three rooms. The library has been completely renovated and modernized and is in excelelnt condition. Generous amounts have been budgeted and spent on all libraries, and new furniture has been provided in the science laboratory. The amount budgeted for libraries is $1,150. and much of this amount has alreday been spent in purchasing new and well selected library books. A new and adequate gym nasium is to be dedicated soon. The committee was most favor bly impressed by all insrtuctic observed and by the excelle spirit of friendliness and coopera tion exhibited by pupils and stal members. Evidences were on ev ery hand to indicate a most happy and effective learning situation throughout the school.

Two recommendations for improvement were suggested: That DePriest High School program be put on one-hour periods as soon as practicable; and further improvements in some facilities of the school system.

The school, with 32 affiliated units of work, was recommended for retention on the accredited list of Texas schools.

Talks to Lions Club At Tuesday Luncheon

Methodiet Minister

"Great Things for Great Times" was the topic of discussion when Rev. Darris L. Egger, pastor of the First Methodist Church, spoke at the Tuesday noon luncheon meeting of the Hamlin Lions Club at the oil mill guest house.

The minister used as a background a study of the struggle of the people of Israel for survival as recorded in the book of Judges and compared the solution of that people's problems of Bible days with solutions of our problems of today. "When people realize where and how they have failed, they can do something in the future," he asserted.

Egger urged his hearers to admit their failures of the past, hear God's call, trust in God and give ourselves to leadership in order to succeed.

Vice President Fred Smith presided at the Tuesday luncheon in the absence of President Edgar For the first time in many

IT'S THE LAW IN TEXAS

A Public Service Feature of the State Bar of Texas

WHO HAS THE RIGHT-OF-WAY?

Possibly the most mystifying of ll traffic rules to the average driver are those relating to rightof-way at an intersection. In reality, however, these rules are quite simple.

In trying to understand the law: regulating intersecting traffic, it is best to start off with the premise that all streets are of equal dignity, legally speaking. Traffic signs and signals may vary this rule somewhat, but when in doubt it is safest to assume that lal drivers crossing your path have a claim to the right-of-way equal to

Obviously, however, in many cases one driver or the other will be legally entitled to the rightof-way. When it becomes necessary to determine right-of-way in a particular situation, the driver who reaches the intersection first, or who is going to get there first. is ordinarily favored.

But when two automobiles are an equal distance from the intersection, that one approaching from the other driver's right normally has the right-of-way.

Some intersections are known as "courtesy corners," having a stop sign or a flashing red signal facing each direction of approach. The first driver reaching the corner and coming to a complete stop will normally have the rightof-way over other vehicles not already in the intersection. However, don't depend too much on the other fellow's courtesy, and be sure to keep a "proper lookout" and your car under "proper control," as explained in a previous column.

At intersections involving one through street and another street having a stop sign, a driver approaching the stop sign and coming to a full stop is ordinarily said to have the right-of-way over vehicles approaching on the gradually over to the right-hand he intersection.

However, this last rule must be qualified by saying that you should not proceed, cross or turn unnecessary, unlawful and danonto the through street until you can do so without interfering with oncoming traffic. In other words, if an approaching car will arrive within the intersection before you are completely clear, wait just s little longer. The same rules ar ply to entering a highway from a side road containing a stop sign.

Many drivers violate the rules of right-of-way covering left-hand turns at intersections. When turning left, you should always be on the inside (or center) lanc, displaying the proper hand signal. You must allow all cars coming from the opposite direction, already in the intersection, to pass through before completing your urn. Even when the intersecion is cleared, do not proceed uness other oncoming traffic is far our signal and slow down to llow you to turn with safety to Il concerned.

Stay in the inside lane until your left-hand turn is entirely completed, and only then move through street but not already in lane if you wish. When turning

WANT TO GET YOUR New Year off to a rollicking start?

Want to take the wheel of the car that's winning raves from Coast to Coast and back again?

Then take the wheel of a 1957 Buick and try the sparkling-est new performance team in all autodom.

We mean the team with the highestpowered V8 engine ever to ginger a Buick - and an advanced new Variable Pitch Dynaflow.*

Here, with just a judicious touch of foot to treadle, you get response so obediently instant, so liquid smooth, and so full range in "Drive"-that you've never in your life felt anything like it.

L.... SAFETY REMINDER..... In fast-moving traffic on turnpikes, ways and freeways, keep a good distance from the car in front—and a little more for good measure. That way you, and every driver behind you, get a bigger margin of safety for braking action. ..... PASS IT ALONG ......

It's sports-car going in a full-sized traveler that's sheer delight from start to finish.

Know what else?

Folks like the way this new kind of performance comes dressed in sleek and glamorous styling that's fresher than tomorrow's news.

They like the new roominess inside these low-sweep Buicks and the new luxury of their "nested" ride.

They like the new ease of handling, the new steadiness of cornering, the way stops are always on the level no matter how quickly you use the brakes.

Fact is, folks like everything about the newest Buick yet - the car that's fast becoming the biggest hit of the new car year-and you will, too. Come on in and try it this week. We'll have the red carpet out for you.

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflow is the only Dynaflow Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century-optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

AMERICAN ECONOMY HAS GROWN CONSISTENTLY

What a country!" is the happy title of a feature article in the October issue of Fortune, written by Gilbert Burck and Sanford Parker. It has to do primarily with the everchanging American market and consumer

As everyone knows, this spending has increased at a great rate. It was $200,000,000 in 1950 and this year, the Fortune article says, It will come to $242,000,000,000. In 1960 it is expected to reach $282,000,000,000 (in terms of constant 1956 dollars). Family cash income, after taxes, now averages $5,400—the projected 1960 figure is $5,000.

But this increase is not all of the story of "What a Country!" by any means. Equally impressive is a change in direction of the spending-toward what is called "spend better." For instance, the famous Paris fashion showings are traditionally attended only by representatives of a comparatively few high priced specialty shops. But last summer, to the amazement of many, a representative of a leading mail order house was present. As Messrs Burck and Parker write, "What it amounted to was an announcement to the world that the U.S. had achieved a living standard so high and a prosperity so widely distributed that the nation's largest purveyor to the average man, simply to keep abreast of the market, had found itself obliged to keep abreast of the latest in houte couture.

... The vast majority of American consumers are no longer content with minimum standards, but demand the abundance, quality and style that used to differentiate the good sumer is getting more and more demandingbecause he can afford to be.

This is changing old concepts of "saturated" markets. As an example, the Fortune article says that the electric iron market has been considered more than 90 per cent "saturated" for 25 years. Yet more and more irons are sold-sold in much greater quantity than the replacement factor alone demands. This is becoming true of all manner of commodities.

As part and parcel of the trend, a new kind of competition has appeared and become a powerful force. It is inter-industry competition, and was relatively unimportant in past times. The Burck-Parker article makes its workings plain in these words: "The new Buick competes with that vacation in Florida; the desire to move from a three-bedroom house to a four-bedroom house competes with the urge to buy a bigger power boat next spring; and in countless smaller decisions every day there is competition between better quality food and better quality clothes, more high-fi records and the new camera, etc."

This advanced state of discretionary spending has led economists astray. For example, when auto sales sagged badly last spring some felt that the economy as a whole was due for a hard blow. But that did not happen Pots Hudson, county attorney, -because people spent the money for other things, and total spending remained high.

All this, of course, does not mean that the American economy is nothing but sweetness and light, without a problem or a built-in danger. But it does show that the economy has grown almost beond the wildest expectations-and that the fruits of it, as demonstrated by material living standards, are more widely shared than in any the modern world

Destroy Cotton Stalks Early

Although there are not too many cotton stalks in the Hamlin section to destroy, insect specialists are urging that what farmers have be destroyed as early as possible.

Conditions are ideal for destroying cotton stalks and boll residue because of the early harvest brought on by the drouth. Extension Entomologists F. M. Fuller and C. F. Garner say the practice should be stressed for it is one of the best for controlling pink bollworms and other cotton insects.

The use of stalk shredders is highly recommended since these machines kill many of the pink bollworms left in the field after harvest. The entomologists say it is desirable to plow the shredded residue under to a depth of six inches within five days after cutting, but that when the shredded material is spread thinly over the ground, hot sunshine and soil temperatures will kill many of the dreaded worms.

The entomologists have made available through the offices of local county agents, the booklet L-219, "Ways to Fight the Pink Bollworm." It is free for the asking. In addition to recommended control practices, the publication lists the legal plow-up deadlines for the different districts of the state, and the pink bollworm regulatory requirements for the year 1956.

Finally, the entomologists point out, early stalk destruction is also one of the best control methods for all major cotton destroying insects. Too, it is also a good farming practice from the standpoint of soil and water conservation and soil preparation.

Man Does Not Live Alone

No man is an island, entire of itself. Every man is a piece of the continent, a part of the main. If a clod be washed away by the sea, Europe is the less as well as of a manor of thy friend or of thine own. Any man's death diminishes me, because I am involved in mankind. And, therefroe, never send to know for whom the bell tolls: I tolls for thee.-John Donne.

One Day at a Time

The present only belongs to us. Of all the vast eternities, only the moment we presently enjoy is assured to us. The past is an accomplished history that cannot be altered; the future is a prospective record that cannot be

The influence of today's activity may touch the very shores of eternity, but it is to the individual only a momentary opportunity. The burdens that rest heavily on tired shoulders may be entirely removed by tomorrow's dawn. It is only the duties of the day that demand performance and the evils of the hour that need to be borne.

The attempt to bear tomorrow's load results in failure, both for the present and the future.

THE TEST OF PEOPLE.

It is going to be interesting to see if advertising promotion is going to be able to sell enough new automobiles to keep that industry humming this year. Here is a wrapped-up Rev. Dan M. Williams, first paspackage of our economy. If the public buys it, it could well mean there is no limit to a way of progress based on mass production and hard promotion.

Most of us will agree that we could very well drive our present cars a year longer or even two, maybe more. But will we? Can we resist a car that breaks through the vibration barrier with a swept-wing mastery of motion? Another leaps a full three years ahead in one flaming moment while the racy lines of another's dream car styling for 1957 lend themselves to the grace and beauty of the new century.

They are words. But if they make people buy cars, and car makers buy steel, and steel workers buy appliances—and more cars—then liam Cork were injured in firewe're all in on the upward swing.

A friend of ours recently put it this way, 'In a net sort of way, I don't seem to be any better off than I was a few years back. But, I am living a whole lot better!"-Caps and Lower Case.

The library has been completely renovated and modernized and is in excelelnt condition. Generous amounts have been budgeted and spent on all libraries, and new furniture has been provided in the science laboratory. The amount budgeted for libraries is $1,150. and much of this amount has alreday been spent in purchasing new and well selected library books. A new and adequate gymnasium is to be dedicated soon. The committee was most favo ably impressed by all insrtuction observed and by the excellen spirit of friendliness and cooper tion exhibited by pupils and sta members. Evidences were on ev ery hand to indicate a most happy and effective learning situation throughout the school.

Two recommendations for im provement were suggested: That DePriest High School program be put on one-hour periods as soon as practicable; and further improvements in some facilities of the school system.

The school, with 32 affiliated units of work, was recommended for retention on the accredited list of Texas schools.

The fight for beauty is eternal. I through sickness and health, for better or worse. These reflections may elate or distress them.

One important beauty chore for the young modern is proper cleansing of the skin, insurance for a good complexion. A model agent says the trouble with young people and their first make-up is that they do not learn how to "make down" (remove it properly). That is the key to a pretty complexion, neglect hair, finger nails, even he says. Remove all the goo when you are ready to go to bed and certainly before applying new make-up.

Make-up removal must be a horough job. One beauty authority noted for her famous cover-up Mrs. Houston Walker of Lubbock, for troubled skins now has devised a liquid that is said to free pores completely of imbedded dirt that forms blackheads. It is good for blemishes when applied to disturbed areas and allowed to dry of its own accord.

This particular liquid also is good for women with combination oily and dry skin, excessively oily chin, but dry on cheeks and near the eyes. The liquid in that case is applied only to oily areas.

Blemishes may be treated with the liquid before any other outbreaks occur. Pimples and blackheads should dry and heal. The liquid has been tested for more than 10 years and contains antiseptic properties such as hexachlorophene, resorcinol and suloil compound.

Cotton costumes by internationally known designer Renie are fea-tured in the 1957 Ice Follies. Mary Goudreau is dressed as a bootblack for one of seven productions in the Shipstads and Johnson show. Her long-sleeved blouse is tangerine cotton with black-stitched patches. All costumes are lined with cotton broadcloth.

But nearby home-owners howled. They called th 80-year-old frame cottage a "pile of junk." Suit was filed to have it removed from the neighborhood.

Then a swift, night-time blaze completely destroyed the house. It wasn't likely accidental, said Austin's fire marshal, but probably set by some mischief maker taking advantage of the already heated controversy.

Pure heaven for the youngsters is this unusual Two-Tone Fudge - creamy rich chocolate, teamed with the pleasant saltiness of peanut butter. It's all from one simple basic recipe combination of smooth evaporated milk, caramels and sugar. To one-half add peanut butter, and to the other half, add semi-sweet chocolate morsels. Evaporated milk lends smoothness and rich flavor to this versatile The high milk solid content of evaporated milk helps prevent formation of "sugary" crystals, resulting in velvety texture olesome candy in squares, swirls dropped from a spoon on waxed paper or foil, peanut clusters, or rolls made by shaping cooled fudge into logs and rolling them in

IT'S THE LAW IN TEXAS

A Public Service Feature of the State Bar of Texas (This column, based on Texas law, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who knows the facts, because the facts may change the application of the law).

WHO HAS THE RIGHT-OF-WAY?

Possibly the most mystifying of all traffic rules to the average driver are those relating to right of-way at an intersection. In reality, however, these rules are quite simple.

In trying to understand the laws regulating intersecting traffic, it s best to start off with the premise that all streets are of equa dignity, legally speaking. Traffic signs and signals may vary this rule somewhat, but when in doubt it is safest to assume that lal drivers crossing your path have a claim to the right-of-way equal to vour own.

Obviously, however, in many cases one driver or the other wil be legally entitled to the rightsary to determine right-of-way in a particular situation, the driver is ordinarily favored.

But when two automobiles are an equal distance from the intersection, that one approaching from the other driver's right normally has the right-of-way.

Some intersections are known as "courtesy corners," having a ave its machine use the same stop sign or a flashing red signal facing each direction of approach. The first driver reaching the corner and coming to a complete stop will normally have the rightof-way over other vehicles not already in the intersection. However, don't depend too much on the other fellow's courtesy, and be sure to keep a "proper lookout" and your car under "proper control," as explained in a previous column.

At intersections involving one through street and another street having a stop sign, a driver ap proaching the stop sign and coming to a full stop is ordinarily they can photograph thoughts as said to have the right-of-way over vehicles approaching on the gradually over to the right-hand through street but not already in lane if you wish. When turning the intersection.

However, this last rule must be at all times. Do not swing wide qualified by saying that you into the center lane, as to do so i unnecessary, unlawful and danshould not proceed, cross or turn onto the through street until you gerous. can do so without interfering with oncoming traffic. In other words if an approaching car will arrive within the intersection before you are completely clear, wait just s ittle longer. The same rules apply to entering a highway from a side road containing a stop sign.

Many drivers violate the rules of right-of-way covering left-hand urns at intersections. When urning left, you should always e on the inside (or center) lanc. lisplaying the proper hand signal. You must allow all cars coming rom the opposite direction, aleady in the intersection, to pass hrough before completing your urn. Even when the intersecion is cleared, do not proceed uness other oncoming traffic is far enough away to be able to see our signal and slow down to llow you to turn with safety to Il concerned.

Stay in the inside lane until your left-hand turn is entirely completed, and only then move

Want to take the wheel of the car that's winning raves from Coast to Coast and back again?

Then take the wheel of a 1957 Buick and try the sparkling-est new performance team in all autodom.

We mean the team with the highestpowered V8 engine ever to ginger a Buick - and an advanced new Variable Pitch Dynaflow.*

Here, with just a judicious touch of foot to treadle, you get response so obediently instant, so liquid smooth, and so full range in "Drive"—that you've never in your life felt anything like it.

L.... SAFETY REMINDER.... In fast-moving traffic on turnpikes, parkways and freeways, keep a good distance from the car in front—and a little more for good measure. That way you, and every driver behind you, get a bigger margin of safety for braking action. ..... PASS IT ALONG ...... It's sports-car going in a full-sized traveler that's sheer delight from start to finish.

Know what else?

Folks like the way this new kind of performance comes dressed in sleek and glamorous styling that's fresher than tomorrow's news.

They like the new roominess inside these low-sweep Buicks and the new luxury of their "nested" ride.

They like the new ease of handling, the new steadiness of cornering, the way stops are always on the level no matter how quickly you use the brakes.

Fact is, folks like everything about the newest Buick yet - the car that's fast becoming the biggest hit of the new car year-and you will, too. Come on in and try it this week. We'll have the red carpet out for you.

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflow is the only Dynaflow Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century-optional at modest extra cost on the Special.
